

Stylish & Sensible

As more and more homeowners look to remain in their homes well into their senior years, kitchen and bath designers are being tasked with incorporating products into designs that will meet their changing needs. For the bath, functional products such as comfort-height toilets that perform multiple functions, touchless or single-handle faucets with temperature control features, and safety products including grab bars and lighting showcase sensible design and beauty in the same package.

From zero-threshold showers to vanities with night lights and clever storage, KBDN this month takes a look at a sampling of products for the bath that deliver safety and high style.

- 1. Brizo's Sensori custom shower systems include the Sensori Thermostatic Valve, engineered to keep water temperature consistent. The H2O-kinetic showerheads, handshowers and body sprays deliver water in a wave pattern. Circle No. 215 on Product Card
- 2. Panasonic Eco Solutions' WhisperFit EZ is a low-profile, retrofit ventilation fan that can be used in existing ducts. The fan is available in three models – non-lighted, lighted and non-lighted with motion sensor. Circle No. 216 on Product Card
- 3. Geberit has added the Omega Series to its line of concealed tank and carrier systems. The Series consists of a Duofix carrier frame with an Omega in-wall toilet tank for wall-hung toilets, plus a range of dual-flush plates. Circle No. 217 on Product Card
- 4. Designed to convert an existing toilet into a bidet, the iWash S-10 Bidet Seat from Icera provides a heated seat with adjustable water temperature, a warm-air dryer and an LED night light. The iWash includes aerated wash capabilities and adjustable water temperature, pressure and nozzle position. Circle No. 218 on Product Card
- 5. The modular design of the Cartesian vanity from Robern features building blocks crafted in varying sizes that allow for customization. An optional night light provides soft light within the drawer interiors to help locate items. Circle No. 219 on Product Card
