STYLISH FAUCETS

GRAFF released CAMDEN, a collection of faucets and accessories inspired by the imperious shapes of chess figures. The object is not made from a forged brass bar, but rather a solid brass block, internally emptied. The spout of the faucet is thus more full-bodied. The handle is available in two variants: the classic "cross" or the "lever" handle, both functional and practical in everyday use. Produced in brass with a very low nickel and lead content, the range promises a long life.

The collection's style is transitional, which allows it to fit into both traditional and contemporary settings. All thermostatic units are compatible with the M-Series, the new modular GRAFF concealed system that combines diverters and cut-off valves, to meet all application needs. When using a diverter, it is possible to choose one output at time, while with the cut-off valves, it is always possible to operate an output simultaneously and independently from those controlled by diverters or other cut-off valves.
