1. The Heart of the Home

Inspired by the life-giving blood vessels of the body, the hand-built coil stoneware 4-Way Venule vessel is equally intriguing as a work of art or a spot to keep blossoms fresh. | Mis en Scene Home, Washington Depot, misenscenehome.com

2. Good Bones

Small treasures deserve to be tucked away in a special spot, like Jamie Young's handsome, sculptural hexagonal box with a gray-stained bone mosaic veneer. | Olley Court, Ridgefield, olleycourt.com

3. Call of the Wild

Limited-edition Elk chairs, a collaboration by Gus* Modern and Pendleton Woolen Mills, evoke a classic wingback chair design, but are updated with contemporary materials and bold, organic lines.

Sunbrella produces the Pendleton fabric, making them as carefree as they are good-looking. | CADO Modern Furniture, Milford, cadomodern.com

4. Ahead of the Curve

There's a bit of magic in the Luna wall-mounted faucet from Graff. The light, airy design—a simple arc that seems to float on the wall—will add the "wow" factor to a powder room. | Plimpton & Hills, Hartford, plimptonhills.com

5. Aged to Perfection

With its aged gold leaf and brass finishes on a composite base, the Madailán table lamp from Currey & Company has the venerable look of an antique. An off-white shantung shade completes the illusion. | Lillian August, Norwalk, lillianaugust.com
